Updates

- The Chiller project is moving forward quickly: A number of companies have already inquired
- Survey: We are intent on getting a good response rate so we can say we sampled a wide group.
 - We're at 700 responses, which is 4%. We're aiming for 10%.
 - We've been calling the community and it's been successful. People are enjoying the conversation.
 - There are about 9,000 more numbers to go through, as of June 9.
 - These responses are important for decision-making going forward; we can look back and say 50% said this, etc.
 - The questions run the gamut; a lot of operational questions that were implemented already. There are long range planning questions on the survey as well.
 - We're hoping to have all telephone surveys done by Sept. 1.
 - The survey is available everywhere: online, in print, etc.
 - Eugenia handed out copies of the survey for the LRAC members to hand out to people they know
 - We'd like ideas for other places to do the survey, such as the Lion's Club
- Long range vision plan update: The Board is going to be meeting for a workshop session once a month with the end goal of having mission statement and long range plan ready by end of September
 - They are updating the mission statement to be relevant to what we're doing.

Focus Group

Bob Gabalski and a representative of Lothrop associates conducted a second focus group session with the members of LRAC. Members received documentation that included floor plans and information on each of the six zones. The focus group consisted of a dialogue about each of the six zones.

Meeting ended at 9PM.
